Our Comments & Addressing the Gender Pay Gap

Our gender pay gap primarily reflects workforce composition, with males holding a higher proportion of senior, higher-paid roles and females more frequently represented in lower-paid and part-time positions. A contributing factor is that entry level, part-time roles such as house-keeping and restaurant servers tend to be occupied by mostly female employees, whilst the kitchen team, predominantly male, are higher paid as an industry norm.

This structural distribution remains the key factor influencing the overall pay gap, though continued recruitment and progression initiatives are expected to improve balance over time. Kildare Hotel Opportunities Ltd is committed to reducing gender pay differences and promoting equal pay for all employees.

Current and Planned Measures to Address the Gender Pay Gap

Recruitment and Promotion Practices

- Introduce gender-balanced recruitment shortlists.
- Encourage internal and external female candidates to apply for senior and management roles.
- Review job descriptions to ensure they are inclusive and free from bias.

Pay and Reward Review

- Conduct annual remuneration reviews to ensure pay equality across roles and genders.

Career Development and Leadership Opportunities

- Encourage female employees to participate in mentoring and leadership opportunities to support progression into management roles. Provide equal access to training and development for all employees.

Policy

- Review and update the Equality, Diversity & Inclusion (EDI) Policy to ensure it reflects best practice and supports gender equity across all areas of the business.
